VOUCHERCLOUD THE UK'S LEADING MOBILE COUPON PROVIDER - LAUNCHES IN IRELAND

VODAFONE GROUP TAKES CONTROLLING STAKE IN THE COMPANY

Vouchercloud, the UK's leading mobile coupon provider giving shoppers the best local deals delivered directly to their smartphone, today launches in Ireland.

The service offers discounts, codes and vouchers for daily shopping from a wide range of High Street shops, restaurants and leisure providers as well as travel and financial services companies. Vouchercloud uses the smartphone's GPS system to locate discounting retailers nearest to the customer, then guides the customer to the shop's front door using the smartphone's digital mapping application. The voucher is downloaded to the smartphone screen with a single tap, then shown to the sales assistant in store to redeem the discount. Vouchercloud also includes a variety of offers to be used when shopping online.

Retailers can manage their own vouchers and discount offers via a simple self-service online portal, enabling businesses of all sizes - from small family-run firms to multinational chains - to draw on a powerful marketing tool to increase footfall and sales.

Vodafone investment

Separately, Vodafone Group (Vodafone) announced today that it had increased its shareholding in Vouchercloud's parent company, Invitation Digital Limited (IDL), to 57%. Vodafone took a 21% stake in IDL in May 2011 and, further to the transaction announced today, has the first option to increase its direct shareholding in the future.

Vodafone intends to work with IDL to extend Vouchercloud beyond the UK and Ireland over the coming months as part of the global communications company's broader mobile commerce (m-commerce) strategy. Further country launches - and details of Vouchercloud integration within Vodafone's other m-commerce activities - will be announced in due course.

Vodafone Group Commercial Development Director Tobin Ireland said: Mobile couponing is set to grow rapidly across Vodafone's businesses as cost-conscious consumers increasingly turn to their smartphones to hunt for bargains and collect loyalty points. We look forward to working more closely with Vouchercloud in future as m-commerce services become ever more central to consumers' daily lives.

IDL Chief Executive and Co-founder Scott Davidson said: Our vision is to build the world's leading mobile couponing business, making it easy for consumers to save money and get the best deals from a wide range of retailers, wherever they are. We are delighted that Vodafone shares our vision of the future and look forward to a long and successful partnership.

VODAFONE GROUP RESPONSE TO THE NATIONAL AUDIT OFFICE REPORT ON HMRC TAX SETTLEMENTS

The National Audit Office (NAO) has concluded that Vodafone's £1.25 billion settlement with the UK tax authorities in 2010 was good from the perspective of the UK taxpayer and represented fair value for the wider taxpaying community.

In December 2011, the NAO was asked to report to the UK House of Commons Public Accounts Committee on the reasonableness of settlements agreed between Her Majesty's Revenue and Customs (HMRC) and large companies to resolve recent tax disputes. The NAO was assisted in its review by Sir Andrew Park, who concluded that HMRC were right to settle the nine year-long dispute with Vodafone at £1.25 billion because, if the case had not been settled, it would have gone to litigation. If this had happened, there was a substantial risk that the Department [HMRC] would have received nothing.

Vodafone Group Chief Financial Officer Andy Halford said: For more than a year, Vodafone has been falsely accused of improper conduct. As we have consistently stated, those attacks were unwarranted and unjust. We acted with the utmost propriety throughout the HMRC settlement process, and the National Audit Office has now concluded that the outcome was good for the UK taxpayer. We welcome this vindication. Vodafone has always been a responsible company with a strong commitment to managing our affairs properly and diligently within the law and with full disclosure to all relevant tax authorities.

Vodafone is a long-standing and significant contributor to the UK as a whole, not least in our role as the biggest dividend payer in the UK. We returned £6.7 billion in cash to our shareholders this year, who include virtually every major investment fund relied upon by millions of UK pensioners and savers.

Further details of the NAO report can be found at: http://www.nao.org.uk/publications/1213/settling_large_tax_disputes.aspx

Although anonymised, the Vodafone settlement is clearly identifiable and is discussed in detail under Case D in Appendix 1.

VODAFONE FIRST NON-US SUPPLIER TO BE AWARDED MOBILE CONTRACT UNDER GSA SCHEDULE 70 BY US GOVERNMENT

Vodafone Global Enterprise - the business within Vodafone which manages the communications needs of its largest multinational customers - has become the first non-US mobile provider to be granted US Government supplier status under GSA Schedule 70.

The company will be listed as an approved supplier to provide mobile voice, data and machine to machine (M2M) services to the US Government in eight European countries: United Kingdom, Ireland, Netherlands, Germany, Portugal, Italy, Hungary, and Greece. Services available include central ordering, spend analytics and customer services.

Under the terms of the contract, US Government employees outside of the US will be able to access a range of standardised Vodafone services. It will now be much easier for US Government agencies such as The Department of Defense, State Department, Department of Homeland Security, and Department of Justice to buy mobile solutions from Vodafone Global Enterprise.

Vodafone Global Enterprise Chief Executive Nick Jeffery said, US Government employees and agencies working abroad will gain from flexible and cost-effective access to Vodafone's services under this agreement. They will be better equipped to perform their role and have full visibility and control over their telecommunications costs. The mobile internet is radically transforming the way governments and organisations in all sectors operate.

Vodafone Group Plc (Vodafone or the Company)

2012 Annual Report

2012 Notice of Annual General Meeting

In accordance with Listing Rule 9.6.1, Vodafone has uploaded a copy of each of the above documents to the National Storage Mechanism.

The 2012 Annual Report is available at www.vodafone.com/investor and the 2012 Notice of Annual General Meeting is available at www.vodafone.com/agm.

The Annual Report on Form 20-F has been filed with the US Securities and Exchange Commission (the SEC). It is available at www.vodafone.com/investor and also on the SEC 's website (www.sec.gov). In addition, shareholders resident in the United States can receive a hard copy of the Annual Report on Form 20-F free of charge upon request by contacting The Bank of New York Mellon at 1-800-555-2470.

A condensed set of Vodafone 's financial statements and information on important events that have occurred during the financial year ended 31 March 2012 and their impact on the financial statements were included in Vodafone 's preliminary results announcement released on 22 May 2012. That information, together with the information set out below, which is extracted from the 2012 Annual Report, constitute the material required by Disclosure and Transparency Rule 6.3.5 which is required to be communicated to the media in full unedited text through a Regulatory Information Service. This announcement is not a substitute for reading the full 2012 Annual Report. Page and note references in the text below refer to page numbers in the 2012 Annual Report and notes to the financial statements.

PRINCIPAL RISK FACTORS AND UNCERTAINTIES

1. Regulatory decisions and changes in the regulatory environment could adversely affect our business.

We have ventures in both emerging and mature markets, spanning a broad geographical area including Europe, Africa, Middle East, Asia Pacific and the United States. We need to comply with an extensive range of requirements that regulate and supervise the licensing, construction and operation of our telecommunications networks and services. Pressure on political and regulatory institutions both to deliver direct consumer benefit and protect consumers interests, particularly in recessionary periods, can lead to adverse impacts on our business. Financial pressures on smaller competitors can drive them to call for regulators to protect them. Increased financial pressures on governments may lead them to target foreign investors for further taxes or licence fees.

2. We could suffer loss of consumer confidence and/or legal action due to a failure to protect our customer information.

Mobile networks carry and store large volumes of confidential personal and business voice traffic and data. We host increasing quantities and types of customer data in both enterprise and consumer segments. We need to ensure our service environments are sufficiently secure to protect us from loss or corruption of customer information. Failure to adequately protect customer information could have a material adverse effect on our reputation and may lead to legal action against the Group.

3. Our business could be adversely affected by a failure or significant interruption to telecommunications networks.

We are dependent on the continued operation of telecommunications networks. As the importance of mobile communication in everyday life, as well as during times of crisis, increases, organisations and individuals look to us to maintain service. Major failures in the network may result in service being interrupted resulting in serious damage to our reputation and consequential customer and revenue loss.

4. Technological advances in handsets and use of alternative communication services may result in less demand for our traditional service offerings.

Strategic handset and technology suppliers are developing mobile content and services. Advancements in smartphone branding and technology places more focus on devices rather than the underlying services provided by mobile operators. The development of applications which make use of the internet as a substitute for some of our more traditional services, such as messaging and voice, could erode revenue. Reduced demand for our core services of voice, messaging and data and the development of services by handset suppliers could significantly impact our future profitability.

5. Increased competition may reduce our market share and profitability.

We face intensifying competition; in particular competing with established competitors in mature markets and competing with new entrants in emerging markets, where all operators are looking to secure a share of the potential customer base. Competition could lead to a reduction in the rate at which we add new customers, a decrease in the size of our market share and a decline in our average revenue per customer, as customers may choose to receive telecommunications services or other competing services from alternate providers. Competition can also lead to an increase in customer acquisition and retention costs. The focus of competition in many of our markets has shifted from acquiring new customers to retaining existing customers, as the market for mobile telecommunications has become increasingly mature.

6. Our business may be impaired by actual or perceived health risks associated with the transmission of radio waves from mobile telephones, transmitters and associated equipment.

Concerns have been expressed that the electromagnetic signals emitted by mobile telephone handsets and base stations may pose health risks. We are not aware that such health risks have been substantiated, however, in the event of a major scientific finding supporting this view this might result in prohibitive legislation being introduced by governments (or the European Union), a major reduction in mobile phone usage (especially by children), a requirement to move base station sites, significant difficulty renewing or acquiring site leases and/or major litigation. An inadequate response to electromagnetic fields (EMF) issues may result in loss of confidence in the industry and Vodafone.

7. One or more countries may exit the eurozone.

In light of recent economic conditions in Europe, there is a possibility of one or more countries exiting the eurozone, causing currency devaluation in those countries and possibly leading to a reduction in our revenue and impairment of our financial and non-financial assets. This may also lead to adverse economic impacts elsewhere.

8. We may be unable to obtain additional/renew sufficient spectrum with an adequate return.

The spectrum we use for the delivery of our services is regulated in each of our markets. The regulators supervise the allocation of frequency spectrum and monitor and enforce regulation and competition laws which apply to the mobile telecommunications industry. Decisions by regulators regarding the granting, amendment or renewal of licences, to us or to third parties, including the implementation of unsustainable cost and revenue models, could adversely affect our future operations in these geographic areas. Our mobile data strategy and roll out of 4G/LTE services is dependent upon us being able to renew and obtain additional spectrum licences.

9. We may not satisfactorily resolve major tax disputes.

We operate in many jurisdictions around the world and from time to time have disputes on the amount of tax due. In particular, in spite of a recent positive India Supreme Court decision relating to an ongoing tax case in India, as set out on pages 138 and 139, the Indian government is proposing retroactive tax legislation which would in effect overturn the court's decision¹.

Such or similar types of action in other jurisdictions may expose us to significant additional tax liabilities which would affect the results of the business.

10. A malicious attack on our network may be successful and disrupt our services or compromise our data.

There is a risk that an attack by a malicious individual or group could be successful on our networks. This could lead to a loss of confidential customer data or availability of critical systems. Our network is also susceptible to interruption due to a physical attack and theft of our network components as the value and market for network components increases (for example copper, batteries, generators and fuel).

11. Changes in assumptions underlying the carrying value of certain Group assets could result in impairment.

Due to the substantial carrying value of goodwill under International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS), revisions to the assumptions used in assessing its recoverability, including discount rates, estimated future cash flows or anticipated changes in operations, could lead to the impairment of certain Group assets. While impairment does not impact reported cash flows, it does result in a non-cash charge in the consolidated income statement and thus no assurance can be given that any future impairments would not affect our reported distributable reserves and, therefore, our ability to make dividend distributions to our shareholders or repurchase our shares.
