The section of the prospectus entitled "Oscient Pharmaceuticals Corporation" is amended and restated in its entirety to read as follows:

Oscient Pharmaceuticals Corporation

We are a biopharmaceutical company committed to the clinical development and commercialization of novel therapeutics to address unmet medical needs. We currently promote two products in the U.S. pharmaceutical market. Our lead product is FACTIVE (gemifloxacin mesylate) tablets, approved by the FDA for the treatment of acute bacterial exacerbations of chronic bronchitis and mild to moderate community-acquired pneumonia. We also co-promote Auxilium Pharmaceuticals' TESTIM, a 1% testosterone gel indicated for the treatment of male hypogonadism. Additionally, we have a novel antibiotic candidate, Ramoplanin, in development for the treatment of Clostridium difficile-associated disease.

The risk factor entitled "We cannot expand the indications for which we will market FACTIVE unless we receive FDA approval for each additional indication. Failure to expand these indications will limit the size of the commercial market for FACTIVE" is amended and restated in its entirety to read as follows:

We cannot expand the indications for which we will market FACTIVE unless we receive FDA approval for each additional indication. Failure to expand these indications will limit the size of the commercial market for FACTIVE.

In April 2003, FACTIVE tablets were approved by the FDA for the treatment of community-acquired pneumonia of mild to moderate severity and acute bacterial exacerbations of chronic bronchitis. One of our objectives is to expand the indications for which FACTIVE is approved for marketing by the FDA, including for the indication of acute bacterial sinusitis, or ABS, as well as a five day course of treatment for CAP. In November of 2005, we submitted a supplemental New Drug Application (sNDA) to the FDA seeking approval for the use of FACTIVE for the five-day treatment of acute bacterial sinusitis, or ABS, and the five-day treatment of CAP. On January 19, 2006, the FDA accepted for filing our sNDA for 5-day CAP but refused to accept the sNDA filing for ABS. In its refusal to accept the sNDA filing for ABS, the FDA indicated that FACTIVE did not exhibit an acceptable risk versus benefit profile for the ABS indication. In addition, the FDA expressed the opinion that demonstrating an acceptable risk versus benefit profile for FACTIVE in ABS was not feasible, given the FDA's view of the potential risk of rash in those patients. We cannot guarantee the timing of any future resubmission of an sNDA for ABS or that such a submission would not be similarly rejected. The FDA has granted a standard ten-month review period for the five-day CAP sNDA. We cannot be certain whether additional data will be required, if we will be required to conduct additional clinical trials or if the five-day CAP sNDA will ultimately be approved. In order to market FACTIVE for other indications, we will need to conduct additional clinical trials, obtain positive results from those trials and obtain FDA approval for such proposed indications. If we are unsuccessful in expanding the approved indications for the use of FACTIVE, the size of the commercial market for FACTIVE will be limited.

The first paragraph of the risk factor entitled "Clinical trials are costly, time consuming and unpredictable, and we have limited experience conducting and managing necessary preclinical and clinical trials for our product candidates" is amended and restated in its entirety to read as follows:

We are currently conducting a Phase IV post-approval clinical trial relating to FACTIVE tablets in compliance with FDA requirements pursuant to the product's approval. If we choose to resubmitting an sNDA for FACTIVE for the treatment of acute bacterial sinusitis we would need to conduct significant additional trials prior to resubmission. Such trials would entail significant time and expense and the FDA has indicated doubt as to the likelihood of their success. Additionally, clinical trials may be necessary to gain approval to market the product for the treatment of acute bacterial sinusitis or other indications/formulations.

The section of the prospectus entitled Selling Stockholders is amended and restated in its entirety to read as follows:

Some of the notes were resold by the initial purchasers to persons they or their agents reasonably believed to be qualified institutional buyers under Rule 144A under the Securities Act.
