Revolutionary Concepts Signs Agreement with Company for $10 Million Credit Facility

On July 2, 2014, the Company filed notification on a Form 8-K Report that Revolutionary Concepts Inc., wholly owned subsidiary Greenwood Finance Group, LLC signed an Agreement with a funding company for a $10 million revolving line of credit for capital funding. The Agreement allows Greenwood to partner in business with an experienced company in the financing services and investment banking industry.

The terms of the Agreement include among other things; (a) the facility is a senior term loan credit facility (b) the credit facility has an initial two year term (c) the credit facility has an interest rate of 16.5% (d) the maturity date is 6 months from the execution date of the agreement (d) the credit facility is subject to periodic due diligence and compliance with all terms of the Senior Secured Revolving Credit Facility Agreement and the Guaranty Agreement. The proceeds for the credit facility are intended to be used for working capital, investments, acquisition of distressed financial assets, and to provide short-term financing to small and mid-cap companies. Neither the Credit Parties, nor any of their Affiliates, shall use any portion of the proceeds of the Loans, either directly or indirectly, for the purpose of (i) purchasing any securities underwritten by any Affiliate of Lender, (ii) paying or repaying any debt owed to any third party, not in the ordinary course of business, (iii) paying any taxes owed or to be owed by any Credit Party or (iv) paying or repaying any officer or director of any Credit Party. Although the credit facility is available, the Company has not and may not access any of the funding.

Basis of presentation - These financial statements have been prepared in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles in the United States of America and have been consistently applied in the preparation of the financial statements on a going concern basis, which assumes the realization of assets and the discharge of liabilities in the normal course of operations for the foreseeable future. The Company maintains its financial records on an accrual method of accounting. The Company's ability to continue as a going concern is dependent upon continued ability to obtain financing to repay its current obligations and fund working capital until it is able to achieve profitable operations. The Company will seek to obtain capital from equity financing through the exercise of warrants and through future common share private placements. The Company may also seek debt financing, if available. Management hopes to realize sufficient sales in future years to achieve profitable operations. There can be no assurance that the Company will be able to raise sufficient debt or equity capital on satisfactory terms. If management is unsuccessful in obtaining financing or achieving profitable operations, the Company may be required to cease operations. The outcome of these matters cannot be predicted at this time. These financial statements do not give effect to any adjustments which could be necessary should the Company be unable to continue as a going concern and, therefore, be required to realize its assets and discharge its liabilities in other than the normal course of business and at amounts differing from those reflected in the financial statements.

Revenue recognition The Company will recognize sales revenue at the time of delivery when ownership has transferred to the customer, when evidence of a payment arrangement exists and the sales proceeds are determinable and collectable. Provisions will be recorded for product returns based on historical experience. To date, the Company's revenue is primarily comprised of interest income.

Options and warrants issued The Company allocates the proceeds received from equity financing and the attached options and warrants issued, based on their relative fair values, at the time of issuance. The amount allocated to the options and warrants is recorded as additional paid in capital.

Stock-based compensation The Company accounts for stock-based compensation at fair value in accordance with the provisions of the Financial Accounting Standards Board's Accounting Standards Codification (ASC) Topic 718, Stock Compensation, which establishes accounting for stock-based payment transactions for employee services and goods and services received from non-employees. Under the provisions of ASC Topic 718, stock-based compensation cost is measured at the date of grant, based on the calculated fair value of the award, and is recognized as expense in the consolidated statements of operations pro ratably over the employee's or non-employee's requisite service period, which is generally the vesting period of the equity grant. The fair value of stock option awards is generally determined using the Black-Scholes option-pricing model. Restricted stock awards and units are valued using the market price of the Company's common stock on the grant date. Additionally, stock-based compensation cost is recognized based on awards that are ultimately expected to vest, therefore, the compensation cost recognized on stock-based payment transactions is reduced for estimated forfeitures based on the Company's historical forfeiture rates. Additionally, no stock-based compensation costs were capitalized for the three months ended September 30, 2014 and September 30, 2013, no stock options were committed to be issued to employees.

Income taxes Income taxes are accounted for under the asset and liability method. Deferred tax assets and liabilities are recognized for the future tax consequences attributable to differences between the financial statement carrying amounts of existing assets and liabilities and their respective tax bases and operating loss carry forwards that are available to be carried forward to future years for tax purposes. Deferred tax assets and liabilities are measured using enacted tax rates expected to apply to taxable income in the years in which those temporary differences are expected to be recovered or settled. The effect on deferred tax assets and liabilities of a change in tax rates is recognized in income in the period that includes the enactment date. When it is not considered to be more likely than not that a deferred tax asset will be realized, a valuation allowance is provided for the excess. Although the Company has significant loss carry forwards available to reduce future income for tax purposes, no amount has been reflected on the balance sheet for deferred income taxes as any deferred tax asset has been fully offset by a valuation allowance.

Reclassifications Certain prior period amounts have been reclassified to conform to current year presentations.

Loss per share Basic loss per share has been calculated using the weighted average number of common shares issued and outstanding during the year.

Use of Estimates - The preparation of the financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make certain estimates and assumptions, where applicable, that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosures of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements, as well as the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. While actual results could differ from those estimates, management does not expect such variances, if any, to have a material effect on the financial statements.

Research and Development Costs - Research and development costs are expensed as incurred in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles in the United States of America. Research is planned search or critical investigation aimed at discovery of new knowledge with the hope that such knowledge will be useful in developing a new product or service or a new process or technique or in bringing about a significant improvement to an existing product or process. Development is the translation of research findings or other knowledge into a plan or design for a new product or process or for a significant improvement to an existing product or process whether intended for sale or use. It includes the conceptual formulation, design, and testing of product alternatives, construction of prototypes, and operation of pilot plants. It does not include routine or periodic alterations to existing products, production lines, manufacturing processes, and other on-going operations even though those alterations may represent improvements and it does not include market research or market testing activities. Elements of costs shall be identified with research and development activities as follows: The costs of materials and equipment or facilities that are acquired or constructed for research and development activities and that have alternative future uses shall be capitalized as tangible assets when acquired or constructed. The cost of such materials consumed in research and development activities and the depreciation of such equipment or facilities used in those activities are research and development costs. However, the costs of materials, equipment, or facilities that are acquired or constructed for a particular research and development project and that have no alternative future uses and therefore no separate economic values are research and development costs at the time the costs are incurred. Salaries, wages, and other related costs of personnel engaged in research and development activities shall be included in research and development costs. The costs of contract services performed by others in connection with the research and development activities of an enterprise, including research and development conducted by others in behalf of the enterprise, shall be included in research and development costs.

Depreciation Depreciation is computed using the straight-line method over the assets' expected useful lives. Valuation of Long-Lived Assets - The Company periodically analyzes its long-lived assets for potential impairment, assessing the appropriateness of lives and recoverability of unamortized balances through measurement of undiscounted operating cash flows on a basis consistent with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

Intangible and Other Long-Lived Assets, Net - (Included in Accounting Standards Codification (ASC) 350 Goodwill and Other Intangible Assets previously SFAS No. 142 and ASC 985 Accounting for Costs of Computer Software to be Sold, Leased, or Otherwise Marketed previously SFAS No. 86)

Intangible assets are comprised of software development costs and legal fees incurred in order to obtain the patent. The software development costs are capitalized in accordance with SFAS 86. Costs of producing product masters incurred subsequent to establishing technological feasibility shall be capitalized. Those costs include coding and testing performed subsequent to establishing technological feasibility. Software production costs for computer software that is to be used as an integral part of a product or process shall not be capitalized until both (a) technological feasibility has been established for the software and (b) all research and development activities for the other components of the product or process have been completed. The fees incurred in order to obtain the patent are capitalized in accordance with SFAS 142 Goodwill and Other Intangible Assets. This Statement applies to costs of internally developing identifiable intangible assets that an entity recognizes as assets APB Opinion 17, paragraphs 5 and 6. The Company periodically analyzes its long-lived assets for potential impairment, assessing the appropriateness of lives and recoverability of unamortized balances through measurement of undiscounted operating cash flows on a basis consistent with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

Deferred charges are amortized using the straight-line method over six years.

NOTE 2 RECENT ACCOUNTING PRONOUNCEMENTS

The Company has reviewed all recently issued, but not yet effective, accounting pronouncements and does not believe the future adoption of any such pronouncements may be expected to cause a material impact on its consolidated financial condition or the consolidated results of its operations, except the following:

June 2014 -Accounting Standards Update 2014-10 Development Stage Entities (Topic 915) Elimination of Certain Financial Reporting Requirements, Including an Amendment to Variable Interest Entities Guidance in Topic 810, Consolidation.

The objective of the amendments in this Update is to improve financial reporting by reducing the cost and complexity associated with the incremental reporting requirements for development stage entities. Users of financial statements of development stage entities told the Board that the development stage entity distinction, the inception-to-date information, and certain other disclosures currently required under U.S. generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP) in the financial statements of development stage entities provide information that has limited relevance and is generally not decision useful. As a result, the amendments in this Update remove all incremental financial reporting requirements from U.S. GAAP for development stage entities, thereby improving financial reporting by eliminating the cost and complexity associated with providing that information.

The amendments in this Update also eliminate an exception provided to development stage entities in Topic 810, Consolidation, for determining whether an entity is a variable interest entity on the basis of the amount of investment equity that is at risk. The amendments to eliminate that exception simplify U.S. GAAP by reducing avoidable complexity in existing accounting literature and improve the relevance of information provided to financial statement users by requiring the application of the same consolidation guidance by all reporting entities. The elimination of the exception may change the consolidation analysis, consolidation decision, and disclosure requirements for a reporting entity that has an interest in an entity in the development stage.

NOTE 3 RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

The Board of Directors previously authorized the officers of the Company to receive advances from the Company, in lieu of taking compensation, under terms of promissory notes bearing 5% interest, beginning January 1, 2006. As of

The agreement also provides Mr. Carter with cash and equity incentives based on performance that must be approved by the Board of Directors. The agreement also provides for participation in the Company's programs to acquire options or equity incentives in common stock subject to the discretion of the Board of Directors, expense reimbursements, participation in retirement and benefit plans, paid time off and indemnification and liability coverage. The Company can terminate Mr. Carter's employment with cause, or without cause upon certain written notice and Mr. Carter can terminate the agreement for "good reason" as defined in the agreement. NOTE 5 COMMITMENTS AND CONTINGENCIES

Liabilities for loss contingencies, arising from claims, assessments, litigation, fines and penalties and other sources are recorded when it is probable that a liability has been incurred and the amount of the assessment and/or remediation can be reasonably estimated. Recoveries from third parties, which are probable of realization are separately recorded, and are not offset against the related liability, in accordance with FASB ASC 210-10-05-3, Offsetting of Amounts Related to Certain Contracts. The Company is the plaintiff in a lawsuit seeking damages against the law firm retained to file for EyeTalk® product patent.

For several years, RCI has been engaged in litigation against its former patent attorneys for malpractice arising from a missed filing deadline relating to obtaining patents for RCI's core technologies outside the United States. After a two-year fight over jurisdiction in the case, including wins for RCI at the trial court and at the North Carolina Court of Appeals, the case was remanded to the trial court for further proceedings. Unfortunately, the trial court dismissed the case on a technicality, potentially ending the case. An appeal was filed in November 2012. The North Carolina Court of Appeals reviewed the Company's appeal on February 12, 2013. The results of the appeal were filed on May 7, 2013. The Court of Appeals reversed the dismissal in part. The Court ruled that tort claims are not assignable in North Carolina, therefore, the plaintiff in the case will remain Ron Carter. The Company is reviewing any possible remaining claims it may have for legal negligence. Management believes that the fact that the Company was dismissed is not really significant at all, because the claims in the suit will be maintained and the case continues to be litigated through Mr. Carter's personal claim for damages, as the original patent applicant. The Court also affirmed that the uninvolved individual defendants, Clements and Bernard, are not individually liable for Dougherty's and Brockington's malpractice which management believes is irrelevant. This case involves the international patents and not the United States patents that have been awarded.

The Company also sued Emmanuel Ozoeneh in federal court. Mr. Ozoeneh was a former business partner in a prior business venture with our CEO Ron Carter. Mr. Ozoeneh began making false claims that he was the inventor of the EyeTalk® system. RCI filed suit in federal court to have Mr. Carter declared the sole inventor. This case has been resolved to the satisfaction of the Company. The terms of the agreement are confidential, but the result was that Ronald Carter and the Company were declared as the sole inventor and retains all rights to the patent(s) for the EyeTalk® system. The Company is currently in default on the agreement and is working to resolve the default.

Although, the full amount of the dividend has not been paid to date, we do have a contingent liability under the agreement to pay this dividend, as funds become available. Both parties agree that dividend payments may be made in the form of cash, common stock, preferred stock, or any combination of the foregoing. We will record the dividends as they are paid. The Company received a copy of the notice and has been instructed by the court to forward any property, monies and or membership interest due to Mr. McDougal to the defendant, up to and including principal; accumulated interest; attorney s fees and court costs of $142,150.

Omnisun Azali vs. Revolutionary Concepts, Inc., et al.

On April 23, 2014 both Ron Carter and Solomon Ali appeared before the Civil Superior Court of Mecklenburg County concerning the matter of Omnisun Azali vs Claude McDougal and US Financial Consultants. The plaintiff claimed Carter and Ali were in contempt for not complying with the Court's order dated January 30, 2013 concerning salary owed to Mr. McDougal. The Plaintiff claimed he was not in receipt of the original note assignment dated September 30, 2013. A contempt hearing was scheduled for June 2014 to determine if Carter and Ali were in contempt for failure to cause Revolutionary Concepts, Inc. to take the actions ordered by the Mecklenburg County Superior Court in its order dated January 30, 2013 and filed on the same date.

On June 5, 2014 the plaintiff's motion for contempt was dismissed and Revolutionary offered to deliver a replacement note to the Plaintiff. On June 5, 2014 the Replacement Amended Convertible Note (the Note) per the judgment of the N.C. Superior Court, and approved by a majority of the Board of Directors, replacing that certain Promissory Note dated September 30, 2013 (the Amended Note), in the amount of One Hundred Forty Two Thousand One Hundred Fifty and 08/100 Dollars ($142,150.08), by and between Revolutionary Concepts Inc., and Omnisun Azali, was delivered to the Plaintiff.

Resolution of Case. Revolutionary Concepts Inc., Rainco Industries Inc. and the named Directors and Officers of each company have resolved all claims with Omnisun Azali in the filed cases in the states of Ohio and North Carolina.

Documents in resolution of the case have been circulated for execution. A Vacation of the Judgment, (vacated judgment), and Orders and dismissal of the underlying cases with prejudice are expected by the Resolution Agreement. A vacated judgment is usually the result of the judgment of an appellate court, which overturns, reverses, cancels, nullifies or sets aside a previous judgment of a lower court, rendering it legally null and void.

During 2010, the Company reclassified $289,787 in accounts payable to long term notes payable in the amount of $204,836 and $84,950 to accrued interest payable, to reflect the assignment by three of our creditors of their balance to a note that will be paid one year or more past the original due date. The outstanding $204,836 of the notes do not bear any interest and began coming due and payable in July 2011. The notes can be converted to restricted common stock. In October 2011, these notes were modified and two of the notes were assigned to an unrelated third party; See Notes dated October 1, 2011 below.

For the twelve months ended December 31, 2013, the Company issued several notes payable for a total of $398,480 and retired $246,842 in notes payable. The new notes issued bear an interest of 10% - 12% and begin becoming due starting in January 2016. The notes grant the Note Holder the right, (but not the obligation), to convert them into common stock of the Company in lieu of receiving payment in cash.

In its efforts to expand and grow, the Company has issued debt instruments to borrow funds from various creditors to raise capital. These are long-term Notes with various rates and maturities, that grants the Note Holder the right, (but not the obligation), to convert them into common stock of the Company in lieu of receiving payment in cash. The issued Notes are secured obligations. The principal amount of the Notes may be prepaid upon agreement of both parties and a prepayment penalty, in whole or part at any time, together with all accrued interest upon written notice.

It could take several years to convert all of the Notes to stock if all of the lenders requested it. It is possible that some of the parties may never convert their Notes to stock and may take cash only, when the Company is in the best position to settle the obligation on a cash basis.

Our largest noteholder is Rainco Industries, Inc. On September 26, 2014, our Board approved a resolution regarding conversions by Rainco stating: in no event shall Rainco Industries, Inc. be entitled to convert any portion of the Notes, in which the sum of (1) the number of shares of Common Stock beneficially owned by Rainco Industries, Inc. and its affiliates (other than shares of Common Stock which may be deemed beneficially owned through the ownership of the unconverted portion of the Notes or the unexercised or unconverted portion of any other security of the Company subject to a limitation on conversion of exercise analogous to the limitations contained herein) and (2) the number of shares of Common Stock issuable upon the conversion of the portion of the Notes with respect to which the determination of this proviso is being made, would result in beneficial ownership by Rainco Industries, Inc. and its affiliates of more than Four Point Nine Nine Percent (4.99%) of the outstanding shares of Common Stock of the Company. For purposes of the proviso to the immediately preceding sentence, beneficial ownership shall be determined in accordance with Section 13(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended and Regulations 13D-G thereunder.

Fair values for exchange traded securities and derivatives are based on quoted market prices. Where market prices are not readily available, fair values are determined using market based pricing models incorporating readily observable market data and requiring judgment and estimates.

The Company issued convertible Notes and has evaluated the terms and conditions of the conversion features contained in the Notes to determine whether they represent embedded or freestanding derivative instruments under the provisions of ASC 815. The Company determined that the conversion features contained in the Notes represent freestanding derivative instruments that meet the requirements for liability classification under ASC 815. As a result, the fair value of the derivative financial instruments in the Notes is reflected in the Company's balance sheet as a liability. The fair value of the derivative financial instruments of the convertible Notes and warrants was measured at the inception date of the Notes and warrants and each subsequent balance sheet date. Any changes in the fair value of the derivative financial instruments are recorded as non-operating, non-cash income or expense at each balance sheet date.

The Company valued the conversion features in its convertible Notes using the Black-Scholes model. The Black-Scholes model values the embedded derivatives based on a risk-free rate of return ranging from 0.09% to 0.14%, grant dates of Notes, the term of the Notes, conversion prices of 50% of current stock prices on the measurement date ranging from $0.00085 to $0.0019, and the computed measure of the Company's stock volatility, ranging from 345% to 358%.

Included in the September 30, 2014, is a derivative liability in the amount of $0 to account for this transaction. This liability arose in the third quarter of 2012 and the balance will be revalued quarterly henceforth and adjusted as a gain or loss to the statements of operations depending on its value at that time.

Included in our Statements of Operations for the nine months ended September 30, 2014 is a gain of $18,891 and a loss of $(23,667) for the nine months ended September 30, 2013 in non-cash charges pertaining to the derivative liability as it pertains to change in derivative liability and amortization of debt discount, respectively.

NOTE 10 GOING CONCERN

The losses, negative cash flows from operations, and negative working capital deficiency sustained by the Company raise substantial doubt about the Company's ability to continue as a going concern. These financial statements do not include any adjustments relating to the recoverability and classification of recorded assets, or the amounts and classification of liabilities that might be necessary in the event the Company cannot continue in existence.

Our Ability to Continue as a Going Concern

Our independent registered public accounting firm has issued its report dated May 1, 2014, in connection with the audit of our consolidated financial statements as of December 31, 2013, that included an explanatory paragraph describing the existence of conditions that raise substantial doubt about our ability to continue as a going concern. Our unaudited condensed consolidated financial statements as of September 30, 2014 have been prepared under the assumption that we will continue as a going concern. Specifically, Note 10 of our unaudited financial statement for the quarter ended September 30, 2014 addresses the issue of our ability to continue as a going concern. If we are not able to continue as a going concern, it is likely that holders of our common stock will lose all of their investment. Our financial statements do not include any adjustments that might result from the outcome of this uncertainty.

RESULTS OF OPERATIONS

RESULTS OF OPERATIONS FOR THE THREE AND NINE MONTHS ENDED SEPTEMBER 30, 2014 COMPARED TO THE THREE AND NINE MONTHS ENDED SEPTEMBER 30, 2013

Operating Expenses Although we have not begun to generate revenues, our total operating expenses decreased to $128,170 from $147,480 for the three months ended September 30, 2014 and 2013, respectively, as compared to $450,292 and $484,893 for the nine months ended September 30, 2014 and 2013, respectively. This decrease for the three and nine months periods is primarily attributable to additional payroll and related expenses for Greenwood Financial personnel, offset by reduction in officer accrued and unpaid salaries and related expenses and increases in professional services.

Net Loss. Our net loss decreased to $(29,115) from $(113,397) for the three months ended September 30, 2014 and 2013, respectively as compared to a gain of $549,361 and a loss of $(780,352) for the six months ended September 30, 2014 and 2013, respectively. Once again attributable primarily to payroll and related expenses for Greenwood Financial personnel, offset by reduction in officer accrued and unpaid salaries and related expenses and increases in professional services.

Assets. Assets decreased by $8,908 to $139,175 at the period ended September 30, 2014, compared to $148,083 as of December 31, 2013. This decrease was primarily due to decreases in patent and security deposits.

Liabilities. Total liabilities decreased by $745,423 to $2,166,576 as of September 30, 2014 from $2,911,999 as of December 31, 2013. The increase is attributable to the decrease in related party notes and notes to unrelated parties due to conversion to stock.

Stockholders' Equity (Deficit). Stockholders' deficit decreased by $736,515 to $(2,027,401) as of September 30, 2014 from $(2,763,916) as of December 31, 2013. The decrease was due primarily to the net income of $549,361 and decreases in notes payable.

Liquidity and Capital Resources

General. Our primary sources of cash have been sales of common stock through private placements and loans from affiliates and unrelated third parties. We are a developmental stage company moving from R & D to the initial stages of development and/ licensing. The transition from R & D to development and production requires a greater focus on operations, product infrastructure, distribution and channel partners and industry alliances. Over the next 6 - 12 months, we will be looking for the ideal acquisitions that will enable our company to take advantage of an existing customer base. Our management will also pursue appropriate Letter of Intents and Joint Ventures that will position our company to move its products into these ventures when successful production is completed. We have also engaged an expert and signed exclusive agent agreement to pursue licensing opportunities within our patent portfolio.

Overall, we had a net decrease in cash of $0 for the period ended September 30, 2014 over the prior year period increase of $4,799.

Cash Flows from Operating Activities. Net cash used in operating activities decreased to $91,230 for the period ended September 30, 2014 compared to net cash used in operating activities of $ 686,254 for period ended September 30, 2013 is primarily attributable to the decreases in notes payable and accrued expenses, and offset by gains on forgiveness of notes which created a net profit.

Cash Flows from Investing Activities. There were $1,607 used by investing activities for the ended period ended September 30, 2014 compared to $63,095 cash used by investing activities for the ended period ended September 30, 2013.

Net cash provided by financing activities was $92,837 for the period ended September 30, 2014 compared to cash provided by financing activities was $754,148 for the period ended September 30, 2013 was attributable to the decrease in notes payable of $84,383 and a decrease in issuance of stock for retirement of debt of $745,693.

Our Company's Capital Structure

In its efforts to grow and expand our company, management must obtain the necessary capital to achieve those objectives, decide on the best methods to obtain that capital, and retain the capital structure of our company. The primary ways a company will raise capital is either through debt financing (borrowing money), or equity financing (selling a portion of the company via shares of stock) or a combination of both. The type of capital chosen (debt or equity), and methods of raising the capital depend on a number of factors including; the company's life cycle stage, e.g., start-up, development, high-growth or maturity, future growth prospects, strength of the national economy and the credit markets.

Potential investors in any company, including ours, will consider those factors and the relative risks to their investment capital. To limit their risks, these investors may limit the size of their investment, or provide it to the company in stages, that is contingent upon the company reaching stated goals e.g., production, marketing, distribution and revenues. The ultimate question for management is; how do you get the investors to commit to making what could be a high risk investment for them, although one that would correspondingly benefit the company, however one that the investor could lose if the company were to fail. Management considered both the equity and the debt financing options based on our life cycle stage, economy, credit markets and other circumstances at the time, and reached the following conclusions;

Equity Financing - Management decided not to raise additional capital through an equity offering in its initial start-up and development stage for a variety of reasons;

- (1) The Company would have had to go through the process of filing a registration statement e.g. S-1 with the SEC, which would have required expenditures and resources with no assurances of receiving expeditious approval and would have been very time consuming, given our situation at that time.
- (2) The direct and indirect flotation costs of the issuance of an equity capital raise could have run $250,000 or more, and the Company did not have those funds available.
- (3) It would have been very difficult to get an investment banker to underwrite a new issuance for a development stage company with a limited operating history and revenues.

(4) Many investors did not want to take an equity position in the Company at that time and the corresponding risks of ownership.

(5) The issuance of equity to these investors, after resolving the potential regulatory challenges, legal issues, time constraints, and costs would have resulted in immediate dilution for the other shareholders, giving them only limited hopes that value would be created.

Therefore, due to the above stated reasons, the economic climate and the Company's circumstances at that time, management elected not to pursue raising capital through an equity offering at that time.

Debt Financing Management elected to raise capital for the Company through debt financing for the following reasons;

- (1) Due to the Companies need for further development of our patents, it had immediate and continuous need for capital.
- (2) The investors were more willing to invest funds more expeditiously, and take a creditor s position instead of that as an owner by taking an equity position.
- (3) With those immediately available funds, management could continue to develop our technology and create short-term economic value to the Company by contracting with various vendors for work, prior to any equity dilution taking place.
- (4) The investors were issued Promissory Notes that were unsecured without any collateral (taking a high risk), except as called for in the agreements.
- (5) The Notes required no monthly payments which allowed us to use that free cash flow for operating expenses, reduced our cash outlays, interest payments and improve our budget, plans and forecast our cash flow.
- (6) The investors received the potential upside of conversion of the Notes into equity while protecting our downside with the use of the cash flow.
- (7) Should the investors decide to convert the Notes into common stock, then the Company s debt would be eliminated from its balance sheet.
- (8) The tax benefits of debt financing is that it s less expensive, while the Company is taxed on earnings, it is not generally taxed on borrowed money and the interest on the Notes is tax deductible.
- (9) Since the investors do not have any equity interests, it has no voting rights or other control over the management of the Company, its operations and no claim to its future earnings.
- (10) If the Company ever suffers a negative financial situation, it is much easier to re-negotiate the terms of the Notes with the individual investors than with a bank, or a group of investors through an equity or bond offering.

Based on the reasons above, and since we required immediate capital to rapidly expand, grow, restructure its operations, continue development, finance potential acquisitions, and execute its marketing plans; raising capital through debt financing, we believed, was our best alternative. This strategy resulted in our expanding our technology patents; thereby, increasing our potential assets, market capitalization value and our shareholders owning a portion of a much larger and more valuable company. As we continue to advance and develop through the different stages of our business life cycle, management will evaluate options, alternatives, and make strategic decisions for the best investment opportunities, financing and capital structure at that time.

Debt

In its efforts to expand and grow, we issued debt instruments to borrow funds from various creditors to raise capital. These are long-term Notes with various rates and maturities, that grants the Note Holder the right, (but not the obligation), to convert them into shares of our common stock in lieu of receiving payment in cash. The issued Notes are secured obligations. The principal amount of the Notes may be prepaid upon agreement of both parties and a prepayment penalty, in whole or part at any time, together with all accrued interest upon written notice.

Our management believes that there are a number of benefits when issuing debt versus issuing equity capital. The interest paid on debt capital is tax exempt; hence, our loan costs are lowered. Outside of their contractual debt documents, creditors have no control in the conduct of the business, so by issuing debt capital, we do not dilute the ownership rights of our shareholders (unless and until any debt is converted into equity). Also, as the interest rates are predetermined, the management is able to budget for the payments. Generally, debt is less costly and the time involved to be able to raise the capital is shortened. In many cases, raising capital through equity requires regulatory approval, which can take months and is dilutive to all shareholders.

From January 7 through January 9, 2013, we received notices of partial conversion from an unrelated third party as part of a note originally issued on June 19, 2012. A total of $16,500 and accumulated interest of $1,100 was converted and 19,130,435 restricted common shares were issued, which leaves a remaining principal balance of $0. This conversion of debt reduced our notes payables $16,500 and also eliminated the accrued interest on the amount converted.

On January 17, 2013, we entered into a nine (9) month convertible Promissory Note with a non-related creditor for $42,500 at 8% interest. The holder has the right to convert the note to common stock at 50% of the then current market prices.

On February 28, 2013, we entered into a three (3) year convertible Promissory Note with a non-related creditor for $12,898 at 12% interest. The holder has the right to convert the note to common stock at $0.003 per share.

On March 30, 2013 we entered into a three (3) year convertible Promissory Note with a non-related creditor for $3,410 at 12% interest. The holder has the right to convert the note to common stock at $0.002 per share.

On April 26, 2013, we entered into a three (3) year convertible Promissory Note with a non-related creditor for $150,020 at 10% interest. The holder has the right to convert the note to common stock at $0.005 per share. On September 30, 2013 this note was amended and $142,150 of the note was assigned by court order to a non-related third party and a request to modify the conversion price to $0.0008 was approved, leaving a balance of $7,870 with the original party. On January 24, 2014 $20,000 of this note was converted to restricted common shares, which leaves a remaining principal balance of $122,150.08 on this portion of the assigned note. This conversion reduced the Company notes payable by $20,000. On September 4, 2014, $10,000 of this note was converted to restricted common shares, which leaves a remaining principal balance of $92,150 on this portion of the assigned note and a balance of $100,020 on the assigned and unassigned portions. This conversion reduced the Company notes payable by $10,000 and also eliminated the accrued interest on the amount converted. The balance of the unassigned portion of the note is $7,870.

On April 30, 2013, we entered into a three (3) year convertible Promissory Note with a non-related creditor for $23,210 at 12% interest. The holder has the right to convert the note to common stock at $0.002 per share. The investors and private equity firms are very astute and have many years of experience and expertise in making successful investments in many companies. They have been investing with our company for several years, and have provided us with critical short and long-term funds that we have used for operations, working capital, and investment capital for our business acquisitions to expand and grow our Company. They have the option to convert their Notes into stock after a six month holding period in accordance with exemptions provided pursuant to the federal and state securities rules and regulations. . However, most have elected to hold their Notes for 1 to 3 years and therefore have taken a long-term investment strategy in our company. Without their continuous long-term commitment to investment in our company, it is unlikely that the growth and expansion that we have achieved would have been possible.

Our largest noteholder is Rainco Industries, Inc. On September 26, 2014, our Board approved a resolution regarding conversions by Rainco stating: in no event shall Rainco Industries, Inc. be entitled to convert any portion of the Notes, in which the sum of (1) the number of shares of Common Stock beneficially owned by Rainco Industries, Inc. and its affiliates (other than shares of Common Stock which may be deemed beneficially owned through the ownership of the unconverted portion of the Notes or the unexercised or unconverted portion of any other security of the Company subject to a limitation on conversion of exercise analogous to the limitations contained herein) and (2) the number of shares of Common Stock issuable upon the conversion of the portion of the Notes with respect to which the determination of this proviso is being made, would result in beneficial ownership by Rainco Industries, Inc. and its affiliates of more than Four Point Nine Nine Percent (4.99%) of the outstanding shares of Common Stock of the Company. For purposes of the proviso to the immediately preceding sentence, beneficial ownership shall be determined in accordance with Section 13(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended and Regulations 13D-G thereunder.

Recent Accounting Pronouncements

The Company has reviewed all recently issued, but not yet effective, accounting pronouncements and does not believe the future adoption of any such pronouncements may be expected to cause a material impact on its consolidated financial condition or the consolidated results of its operations, except the following:

June 2014 -Accounting Standards Update 2014-10 Development Stage Entities (Topic 915) Elimination of Certain Financial Reporting Requirements, Including an Amendment to Variable Interest Entities Guidance in Topic 810, Consolidation.

The objective of the amendments in this Update is to improve financial reporting by reducing the cost and complexity associated with the incremental reporting requirements for development stage entities. Users of financial statements of development stage entities told the Board that the development stage entity distinction, the inception-to-date information, and certain other disclosures currently required under U.S. generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP) in the financial statements of development stage entities provide information that has limited relevance and is generally not decision useful. As a result, the amendments in this Update remove all incremental financial reporting requirements from U.S. GAAP for development stage entities, thereby improving financial reporting by eliminating the cost and complexity associated with providing that information.

The amendments in this Update also eliminate an exception provided to development stage entities in Topic 810, Consolidation, for determining whether an entity is a variable interest entity on the basis of the amount of investment equity that is at risk. The amendments to eliminate that exception simplify U.S. GAAP by reducing avoidable complexity in existing accounting literature and improve the relevance of information provided to financial statement users by requiring the application of the same consolidation guidance by all reporting entities. The elimination of the exception may change the consolidation analysis, consolidation decision, and disclosure requirements for a reporting entity that has an interest in an entity in the development stage.

ITEM 3. QUANTITATIVE AND QUALITATIVE DISCLOSURES ABOUT MARKET RISK

Not Applicable.

ITEM 4. CONTROLS AND PROCEDURES

(a) Evaluation of disclosure controls and procedures

Our management is responsible for establishing and maintaining adequate internal control over financial reporting (as defined in Rule 13 a-15 (f) under the Exchange Act). Management conducted an evaluation of the effectiveness of our internal control over financial reporting and determined that our internal control over financial reporting was ineffective as of December 31, 2013 due to material weaknesses. A material weakness in internal control over financial reporting is defined by the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board's Audit Standard No. 5 as a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control over financial reporting, such that there is a reasonable possibility that a material misstatement of the company's annual or interim financial statements will not be prevented or detected on a timely basis. A significant deficiency is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control over financial reporting that is less severe than a material weakness, yet important enough to merit attention by those responsible for oversight of our financial reporting. Management's assessment identified the following material weaknesses in internal control over financial reporting:

The small size of our Company limits our ability to achieve the desired level of separation in our internal controls and financial reporting. We do have a separate CEO and CFO; however, we do not have an Audit Committee to review and oversee the financial policies and procedures of the Company. Until such time we are able to install an audit committee, we do not meet the full requirement of separation. In the interim, we will continue to strengthen the role of our CEO and CFO and their review of our internal control procedures.

(b) Changes in internal control over financial reporting

There were no changes in our internal control over financial reporting during our most recent fiscal quarter that have materially affected, or are reasonably likely to materially affect, our internal control over financial reporting.

PART II

OTHER INFORMATION

ITEM 1. LEGAL PROCEEDINGS

To the best of our knowledge, during the past five years, none of the following occurred with respect to a present or former director or executive officer of our Company: (1) any bankruptcy petition filed by or against any business of which such person was a general partner or executive officer either at the time of the bankruptcy or within two years prior to that time; (2) any conviction in a criminal proceeding or being subject to a pending criminal proceeding (excluding traffic violations and other minor offenses); (3) being subject to any order, judgment or decree, not subsequently reversed, suspended or vacated, of any court of any competent jurisdiction, permanently or temporarily enjoining, barring, suspending or otherwise limiting his involvement in any type of business, securities or banking activities, except as noted below; and (4) being found by a court of competent jurisdiction (in a civil action), the SEC or the commodities futures trading commission to have violated a federal or state securities or commodities law, and the judgment has not been reversed, suspended or vacated.

For several years, RCI has been engaged in litigation against its former patent attorneys for malpractice arising from a missed filing deadline relating to obtaining patents for RCI's core technologies outside the United States. After a two-year fight over jurisdiction in the case, including wins for RCI at the trial court and at the North Carolina Court of Appeals, the case was remanded to the trial court for further proceedings. Unfortunately, the trial court dismissed the case on a technicality, potentially ending the case. An appeal was filed in November 2012. The North Carolina Court of Appeals reviewed the Company's appeal on February 12, 2013. The results of the appeal were filed on May 7, 2013. The Court of Appeals reversed the dismissal in part. The Court ruled that tort claims are not assignable in North Carolina, therefore, the plaintiff in the case will remain Ron Carter. The Company is reviewing any possible remaining claims it may have for legal negligence. Management believes that the fact that the Company was dismissed is not really significant at all, because the claims in the suit will be maintained and the case continues to be litigated through Mr. Carter's personal claim for damages, as the original patent applicant. The Court also affirmed that the uninvolved individual defendants, Clements and Bernard, are not individually liable for Dougherty's and Brockington's malpractice which management believes is irrelevant. This case involves the international patents and not the United States patents that have been awarded.

The Company also sued Emmanuel Ozoeneh in federal court. Mr. Ozoeneh was a former business partner in a prior business venture with our CEO Ron Carter. Mr. Ozoeneh began making false claims that he was the inventor of the EyeTalk® system. RCI filed suit in federal court to have Mr. Carter declared the sole inventor. This case has been resolved to the satisfaction of the Company. The terms of the agreement are confidential, but the result was that Ronald Carter and the Company were declared as the sole inventor and retains all rights to the patent(s) for the EyeTalk® system. The Company is currently in default on the agreement and is working to resolve the default.

In July and August 2009, the Company issued two notes payable in the total amount of $20,000. The two notes were later combined at the note holder's request into one note. The note bears interest at a rate of 10%. Principal and interest were due in May 2010. In 2009, the Board of Directors agreed to guarantee a personal loan to the President of the Company, Mr. Ron Carter of $75,000 with interest of 10%, by a shareholder. The note became due in November 2010. On October 5, 2010, the Company received notice that a claim for judgment had been filed in Mecklenburg County by a shareholder for the note that was in default as of May 2010. On January 7, 2011, the note holder amended the filing to include the personal loan. The amount of the claim was $100,996, plus interest at 8% and legal costs. On the 10th day of May 2011, a summary judgment was entered on behalf of the plaintiff against Mr. Carter and the Company. On the 4th day of August 2011, the Company reached an agreement with a third party to negotiate and acquire the judgment award and to agree to a convertible note from the Company for its services. The total value of the convertible note is $144,067 including interest, of which the Company has received a promissory note from Mr. Carter for $112,663 for the part of the judgment, interest and fees that was from the personal promissory note that the Company guaranteed.

On February 12, 2013, the Company received notice that a petitioner had been issued a summary judgment against the Company in the amount of $6,485.96, including $1,250.00 attorney fees, plus interest.

Omnisun Azali vs. Claude D. McDougal and US Financial Consultants LLC

On January 30, 2013, a final order was filed in the Superior Court of Mecklenburg County North Carolina against a former officer and director, Mr. Claude McDougal. The final order was for a judgment against Mr. McDougal and US Financial Consulting, LLC, by an unrelated third party. The Company received a copy of the notice and has been instructed by the court to forward any property, monies and or membership interest due to Mr. McDougal to the defendant, up to and including principal; accumulated interest; attorney's fees and court costs of $142,150.

On September 30, 2013, the Company complied with this notice and assigned $142,150 of Mr. McDougal's interest in a note for unpaid salary that was dated April 26, 2013 to Omnisun Azali, per the courts instructions. The original note assignment was mailed to Omnisun Azali shortly after issuance.

Omnisun Azali vs. Revolutionary Concepts, Inc., et al.

On April 23, 2014 both Ron Carter and Solomon Ali appeared before the Civil Superior Court of Mecklenburg County concerning the matter of Omnisun Azali vs Claude McDougal and US Financial Consultants. The plaintiff claimed Carter and Ali were in contempt for not complying with the Court's order dated January 30, 2013 concerning salary owed to Mr. McDougal. The Plaintiff claimed he was not in receipt of the original note assignment dated September 30, 2013. A contempt hearing was scheduled for June 2014 to determine if Carter and Ali were in contempt for failure to cause Revolutionary Concepts, Inc. to take the actions ordered by the Mecklenburg County Superior Court in its order dated January 30, 2013 and filed on the same date.

On June 5, 2014 the client's motion for contempt was dismissed and Revolutionary offered to deliver a replacement note to the Plaintiff. On June 5, 2014 the Replacement Amended Convertible Note (the Note) per the judgment of the N.C. Superior Court, and approved by a majority of the Board of Directors, replacing that certain Promissory Note dated September 30, 2013 (the Amended Note), in the amount of One Hundred Forty Two Thousand One Hundred Fifty and 08/100 Dollars ($142,150.08), by and between Revolutionary Concepts Inc., and Omnisun Azali, was delivered to the Plaintiff.

Resolution of Case. Rainco Industries Inc., Revolutionary Concepts Inc., and the named Directors and Officers of each company have resolved all claims with Omnisun Azali in the filed cases in the states of Ohio and North Carolina. Documents in resolution of the case have been circulated for execution. A Vacation of the Judgment, (vacated judgment), and Orders and dismissal of the underlying cases with prejudice are expected by the Resolution Agreement. A vacated judgment is usually the result of the judgment of an appellate court, which overturns, reverses, cancels, nullifies or sets aside a previous judgment of a lower court, rendering it legally null and void.

ITEM 1A. RISK FACTORS

You should carefully consider the following risk factors together with the other information contained in business, financial condition or results of operations could be materially adversely affected. There have been no material changes to the risk factors previously discussed in Item 1A of the Company's Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 2013, (SEC File Number 000-53674) on the website at www.sec.gov, including but not limited, to the following:

The market price of our common stock may limit its eligibility for clearing house deposit.

We are advised that if the market price for shares of our common stock is less than $0.10 per share, Depository Trust Company and other securities clearing firms may decline to accept our shares for deposit and refuse to clear trades, in our securities. This would materially and adversely affect the marketability and liquidity of our shares and, accordingly may materially and adversely affect the value of an investment in our common stock.

We are an emerging growth company and we cannot be certain if the reduced disclosure requirements applicable to emerging growth companies will make our common stock less attractive to investors.

We are an emerging growth company, as defined in the Jumpstart our Business Startups Act of 2012 or JOBS Act, and we may take advantage of certain exemptions from various reporting requirements that are applicable to other public companies that are not emerging growth companies including not being required to comply with the auditor attestation requirements of section 404 of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act, reduced disclosure obligations regarding executive compensation in our periodic reports and proxy statements and exemptions from the requirements of holding a nonbinding advisory vote on executive compensation and shareholder approval of any golden parachute payments not previously approved. We cannot predict if investors will find our common stock less attractive because we may rely on these exemptions. If some investors find our common stock less attractive as a result, there may be a less active trading market for our common stock and our stock price may be more volatile.

In addition, Section 107 of the JOBS Act also provides that an emerging growth company can take advantage of the extended transition period provided in Section 7(a)(2)(B) of the Securities Act for complying with new or revised accounting standards. An emerging growth company can therefore delay the adoption of certain accounting standards until those standards would otherwise apply to private companies.

We will incur increased costs and demands upon management as a result of complying with the laws and regulations that affect public companies, which could materially adversely affect our results of operations, financial condition, business and prospects.

As a public company and particularly after we cease to be an emerging growth company, we will incur significant legal, accounting and other expenses that we did not incur as a private company, including costs associated with public company reporting and corporate governance requirements. These requirements include compliance with Section 404 and other provisions of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, or the Sarbanes-Oxley Act, as well as rules implemented by the SEC.

The increased costs associated with operating as a public company will decrease our net income or increase our net loss, and may require us to reduce costs in other areas of our business. Additionally, if these requirements divert our management's attention from other business concerns, they could have a material adverse effect on our results of operations, financial condition, business and prospects.

However, for as long as we remain an emerging growth company as defined in the JOBS Act, we may take advantage of certain exemptions from various reporting requirements that are applicable to other public companies that are not emerging growth companies including not being required to comply with the auditor attestation requirements of Section 404 of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act, reduced disclosure obligations regarding executive compensation in our periodic reports and proxy statements and exemptions from the requirements of holding a nonbinding advisory vote on executive compensation and shareholder approval of any golden parachute payments not previously approved. We may take advantage of these reporting exemptions until we are no longer an emerging growth company.

If the market value of our common stock that is held by non-affiliates exceeds $700 million as of any June 30, we would cease to be an emerging growth company as of the following June 30, or if we issue more than $1 billion in non-convertible debt in a three-year period, we would cease to be an emerging growth company immediately.

The investors and private equity firms are very astute and have many years of experience and expertise in making successful investments in many companies. They have been investing with our company for several years, and have provided us with critical short and long-term funds that we have used for operations, working capital, and investment capital for our business acquisitions to expand and grow our Company. They have the option to convert their Notes into stock after a six month holding period in accordance with exemptions provided pursuant to the federal and state securities rules and regulations. . However, most have elected to hold their Notes for 1 to 3 years and therefore have taken a long-term investment strategy in our company. Without their continuous long-term commitment to investment in our company, it is unlikely that the growth and expansion that we have achieved would have been possible.

Our largest noteholder is Rainco Industries, Inc. On September 26, 2014, our Board approved a resolution regarding conversions by Rainco stating: in no event shall Rainco Industries, Inc. be entitled to convert any portion of the Notes, in which the sum of (1) the number of shares of Common Stock beneficially owned by Rainco Industries, Inc. and its affiliates (other than shares of Common Stock which may be deemed beneficially owned through the ownership of the unconverted portion of the Notes or the unexercised or unconverted portion of any other security of the Company subject to a limitation on conversion of exercise analogous to the limitations contained herein) and (2) the number of shares of Common Stock issuable upon the conversion of the portion of the Notes with respect to which the determination of this proviso is being made, would result in beneficial ownership by Rainco Industries, Inc. and its affiliates of more than Four Point Nine Nine Percent (4.99%) of the outstanding shares of Common Stock of the Company. For purposes of the proviso to the immediately preceding sentence, beneficial ownership shall be determined in accordance with Section 13(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended and Regulations 13D-G thereunder.
