ITEM 9. REGULATION FD DISCLOSURE

In connection with an Investor Conference held by Revlon, Inc. (the "Company") on February 18, 2004, the Company disclosed certain material, non-public information (the "Conference Information") to attendees of such conference. On February 12, 2004, the Company issued a press release publicly announcing that such conference would be held on February 18, 2004 from 8:00 A.M. to 11:00 A.M. E.S.T. and that during the conference the Company's President and Chief Executive Officer, Jack Stahl, and other members of senior management will be discussing their views on the current state of the business and the strategic outlook for the future. This press release also announced that access to the Investors Conference would be available to the public via a virtual presentation on the Company's website at www.revloninc.com and in fact the conference was webcast in accordance with such press release.

The Conference Information provided at the Investor Conference included management's forecasts, projections, estimates, objectives, vision, plans, strategies, beliefs, destination, expectations, records and certain historical information regarding the Company. Portions of the Conference Information were prepared by the Company based upon, among other things, the anticipated future results of operation of the Company after giving affect to the implementation of various aspects of its strategic plan.

The Conference Information is divided into the following major components: (i) the Company's long-term vision, referred to in the Conference Information as its "Success Journey"; (ii) a long-term look at what the Company referred to in the Conference Information as its "Destination Model", being the Company's longer term target for various components of its income statement, including an arithmetic application of the "Destination Model" margins to certain aspects of the Company's 2004 plan profit and loss statement; (iii) a breakout of assumed growth drivers of the Company's 2004 plan and the Company's estimates of its financial performance during 2004, including gross sales, net sales, operating income, and adjusted EBITDA; (iv) the "Basis of Presentation", "Guiding Principles" and other assumptions regarding the Company's category, market share and consumption growth; (v) the assumed potential margin improvements over time from various "transformation initiatives", including improving in-store merchandising, redesigning the Company's promotional process, reducing the Company's cost of goods sold, improving the Company's product development processes, introduction and lifecycle management, improving the Company's international supply chain and improving market effective innovation which entails strategic product development, marketing and advertising; (vi) the Company's estimate of the impact of various key initiatives (value analysis, packaging rationalization, direct sourcing, indirect sourcing, SKU rationalization and demand/supply planning) on its 2003 financial performance and on its plan for 2004 and 2005; (vii) the Company's estimate of the potential impact of certain growth initiatives on its 2004 plan gross sales and operating income for its international business and on gross sales for its North America business; (viii) quantification of growth plan charges and estimated benefits; and (ix) a reconciliation of adjusted EBITDA to reported adjusted EBITDA for 2000, 2001, 2002 and 2003, in each case with various adjustments.

2

As certain financial information included within the Conference Information consisted of non-GAAP amounts, such non-GAAP amounts are reconciled to the Company's most directly comparable GAAP measures in the accompanying financial tables beginning on page 31 et. seq. (the "Reconciliation Information"). Such non-GAAP measures include Adjusted EBITDA (See "Basis of Presentation") as well as ongoing operations. As stated in the "Basis of Presentation", the Company believes that Adjusted EBITDA is useful in understanding the financial operating performance and underlying strength of the Company's business, excluding the effects of certain factors, including gains/losses on foreign currency transactions, gains/losses on the sale of assets, miscellaneous expenses and interest, taxes, depreciation, and amortization, and thus the Company believes that Adjusted EBITDA is a financial metric that can assist the Company and investors in assessing the Company's financial operating performance and liquidity. Similarly, the Company believes that information presented on an "ongoing operations" basis, which excludes the disposition of brands and businesses, restructuring, additional consolidation costs (primarily associated with the closing of the Company's Phoenix and Canada facilities), executive severance and expenses related to the acceleration of aspects of the implementation of the Company's stabilization and growth phase of its plan, is useful to the Company and investors in understanding the Company's financial operating performance and underlying strength of its business without the impact of such items.

Edgar Filing: REVLON INC /DE/ - Form 8-K

Statements made in the Conference Information which are not historical are forward looking statements and are based on estimates, objectives, vision, projections, forecasts, plans, strategies, beliefs, destinations and expectations of Revlon's management, and thus are subject to the safe harbor provisions of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. Revlon's actual results may differ materially from such forward looking statements for a number of reasons, including, without limitation, those set forth in Revlon's filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission, including its Annual Reports on Form 10-K, Quarterly Reports on Form 10-Q and Current Reports on Form 8-K.

A copy of the Conference Information is furnished herewith as Exhibit 99.1.
