State below in reasonable detail why Forms 10-K, 20-F, 11-K, 10-Q, 10-D, N-SAR, N-CSR, or the transition report or portion thereof, could not be filed within the prescribed time period.

Dell Inc. is delaying the filing of the Form 10-K for its fiscal year ended February 2, 2007 (the FY2007 Form 10-K) because the independent investigation being conducted by the Audit Committee of the company's Board of Directors has not been completed. As previously announced, the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) and the Audit Committee are conducting investigations into certain accounting and financial reporting matters, including issues relating to reserves and other balance sheet items that may affect the company's previously reported financial results, and the company previously received a related subpoena from the United States Attorney for the Southern District of New York.

The Audit Committee's investigation has identified a number of accounting errors, evidence of misconduct, and deficiencies in the financial control environment. The Audit Committee is working with management and the company's independent auditors to determine whether the accounting errors necessitate any restatements of prior period financial statements, and to assess whether the control deficiencies constitute a material weakness in Dell's internal control over financial reporting.

Management is committed to resolving the issues raised in connection with the investigations, and regaining compliance with all SEC filing requirements (including the filing of the FY2007 Form 10-K) and all NASDAQ listing requirements, as soon as possible.

PART IV OTHER INFORMATION

(1) Name and telephone number of person to contact in regard to this notification

Thomas H. Welch, Jr. (512) 338-4400
(Name) (Area Code) (Telephone Number)

(2) Have all other periodic reports required under Section 13 or 15(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 or Section 30 of the Investment Company Act of 1940 during the preceding 12 months or for such shorter period that the registrant was required to file such report(s) been filed? If answer is no, identify report(s).
Yes No

The company has not filed the Form 10-Q for its fiscal second quarter ended August 4, 2006, and the Form 10-Q for its fiscal third quarter ended November 3, 2006.

(3) Is it anticipated that any significant change in results of operations from the corresponding period for the last fiscal year will be reflected by the earnings statements to be included in the subject report or portion thereof?
Yes No

If so, attach an explanation of the anticipated change, both narratively and quantitatively, and, if appropriate, state the reasons why a reasonable estimate of the results cannot be made.

For the fiscal year ended February 2, 2007, the company currently anticipates reporting revenue of approximately $57 billion (compared to $55.9 billion for the previous fiscal year), net income of approximately $2.6 billion (compared to $3.5 billion for the previous fiscal year) and anticipated diluted earnings per share of approximately $1.16 (compared to $1.46 for the previous fiscal year). Note that the results of operations for the previous fiscal year include a charge of $442 million (pre-tax) related to the cost of servicing or replacing certain systems, workforce realignment, product rationalizations, excess facilities and a write-off of goodwill. For further detail regarding the charge see Dell's Quarterly Report on Form 10-Q for the fiscal quarter ended October 28, 2005.

The currently anticipated results for fiscal 2007 (as described above) represent the aggregate of the reported results for the first quarter of 2007 and the furnished preliminary results for the second, third and fourth quarters. As previously announced, the preliminary financial results for the second, third and fourth quarters (and, therefore, the currently anticipated results for fiscal 2007) are subject to change to reflect any necessary corrections or adjustments, or changes in accounting estimates, that are identified prior to the time the company's financial statements for those periods are finalized. In addition, as described in Part III, the company may determine that restatements of prior period financial reports are necessary, and any such restatements could materially impact the currently anticipated financial results for fiscal 2007, the reported financial results for the previous fiscal year and, therefore, the degree of change between the current and prior year periods described in this Part IV, Item (3).

There are many risk factors that may cause the actual results of the company's operations to differ from those that have been reported or are expected. These potential risks and uncertainties include, among other things, the outcome of the ongoing investigations into certain accounting and financial reporting matters (which could include a determination that restatement of prior period financial statements is required, a conclusion that there is a material weakness in the company's internal controls over financial reporting, and a determination that disclosure controls and procedures are not effective); the company's inability to meet NASDAQ requirements for continued listing as a result of its delayed periodic report filings; and litigation and governmental investigations or proceedings arising out of or related to such accounting and financial reporting matters, or any restatement of the company's financial statements. More information about these and other factors affecting the company's business and prospects is contained in the company's periodic filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission.
